

Plant Hunt

Look around your school to see which types of plants live there. Decide on a starting point and look carefully around you to spot plants. If you know what a plant is called, write its name in a box below. If you are not sure what it is, draw a quick sketch of its leaves and flowers. Move to a different area to see if you can spot any different types of plants. You don't need to write or draw the same plant twice, even if you see two examples of it. Your teacher may help you identify any plants you are not sure about.

Remember not to touch or eat any plants that you find.
